2. Leave of Absence, years required for completion and years in enrollment

You are not allowed to take any courses during the period of leave of absence.

In the master’s program, the duration of leave of absence to be permitted is a minimum of two months but shall not exceed two years (see Article 18 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate School Professional Degree Programs). You should note that the period of your leave of absence will not be included in the calculation of the years required for completion (i.e., 2 years) and the limit on years in enrollment (i.e., 3 years).

In the doctoral program, the duration of leave of absence to be permitted is a minimum of two months but shall not exceed three years (see Article 29 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate Schools). You should note that the period of your leave of absence will not be included in the calculation of the years required for completion (i.e., 3 years) and the limit on years in enrollment (i.e., 5 years).

3. Resumption of Study

Once the reason for your leave of absence becomes non-existent at any time during your leave, you must submit a designated application form to the GraSPP Graduate School Office to request permission. You must follow the same procedures when you return to school at the end of your leave of absence period.
4. Tuition

You are exempted from payment of tuition during your leave of absence. If you have not completed the leave of absence procedure on time, you should note that you could pay tuition for either the spring or autumn semester even if you will be absent from your studies.

When you receive permission to return to your studies, you must pay tuition during the month in which you return for the entire period from that month to the end of the semester. Any tuition which has been paid will not be refunded.

• Procedures for foreign travel

1. Traveling abroad while on leave of absence

If you intend to enroll in an educational or research institution abroad, or conduct research and field trips abroad, you must take procedure for leave of absence.

The period of leave of absence will not be included in the calculation of the years required for completion and the enrollment limit. Further, if you have submitted and received approval for an application for leave of absence prior to the end of the submission period (end of February for the spring semester and end of August for the autumn semester), you will be exempted from paying tuition for the period of your leave of absence (see “Procedures for leave of absence”).

2. Studying abroad (Article 9, Paragraph 2 of The University of Tokyo Rules for the Graduate School of Public Policy)

If you wish to study at a university in a foreign country, you must carry out the procedures required by the GraSPP Graduate School Office.

If you will be taking courses which are related to your major and earning credits for those courses at a university abroad, you may be deemed to have taken the equivalent courses at GraSPP and gain credits up to one-half of the credits required for completion of the course. (Note: If you have transferred credits which existed prior to your enrollment pursuant to Article 10 of The University of Tokyo Rules for the Graduate School of Public Policy, contact the GraSPP Graduate School Office before starting the application procedures).

For study at a university affiliated under a student exchange agreement with GraSPP, refer to the notices separately posted.

• Procedures for changing policy stream * Only for MPP/IP students

You may be allowed to change your policy stream if you are deemed to have an acceptable reason only once during your enrollment.

When you want to change your stream, please make sure to check with the GraSPP Graduate School Office beforehand for more details.

1. Procedures for change

If you wish to change your stream, you must submit a designated application form to the GraSPP Graduate School Office to request permission at least one month before the commencement of the term in which you wish to make the change.

2. Change of stream, leave of absence period, years required for completion and limit on years enrolled

The number of years required for completion, the limit on years enrolled and the duration of leave of absence are aggregated with the years you have accumulated before the change.
3. Treatment of credits previously taken

Credits which you have already gained before you change stream may be included in the calculation of the credit requirements.

- Procedures for extension of enrollment period

The standard period of enrollment of the master’s program is two years (see Article 3 of The University of Tokyo Rules for the Graduate School of Public Policy).

If you wish to extend your enrollment beyond this standard limit, you must submit a notice of extension of enrollment on or before the end of the month preceding the month for your original completion. (Long-term students should contact the Graduate School Office for confirmation).

It should be noted that enrollment of the master’s program is limited to three years (see Article 17 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate School Professional Degree Programs). Accordingly, you can extend your enrollment for only one year (excluding the period of leave of absence).

In the doctoral program, the standard period of enrollment is three years (see Article 2, Paragraph 5 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate Schools), and the enrollment of the program is limited to five years (see Article 27 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate Schools).
