2. FEATURES

Linking public policy and international relations

CAMPUS Asia program offers you a chance to expand your horizons through periods of studying international relations at Peking University and international studies at Seoul National University, while studying public policy at the University of Tokyo. Cross-cultural studies in three countries will equip you with specialized expertise and a deeper understanding of complex interrelated processes.

Gain expertise at the frontline of East Asia

Advanced-level courses in international studies at Peking University and Seoul National University are provided in English. You will be able to enroll in classes of leading academics in each country and acquire knowledge. As an added bonus, CAMPUS Asia students can also attend language classes for international students to acquire language skills in Chinese and Korean.

Form networks for the future

Students will study in the same classroom with students from China, Korea, Japan and various other countries on a daily basis, and find inspiration in the way of thinking of other students from different cultural backgrounds. It is one of the important features of this program that students will be able to form close relationships and network in a culturally diverse environment.

7. FAQ

Q:What is the difference between the "CAMPUS Asia Program" and the " Master of Public Policy, Campus Asia Course"?

A:The "Master of Public Policy, Campus Asia Program (MPP/CAP)," launched 2013, is a new specialization added to the Master of Public Policy (MPP) program at GraSPP, tailored to accommodate foreign exchange and double degree programs under the "CAMPUS Asia Program." From AY 2017, CAMPUS Asia Course will be and CAMPUS Asia Program will be included into "Master of Public Policy, International Program (MPP/IP)".

Q:I am going to be enrolled in the Campus Asia Program. Is it possible in this program to opt to go to just one of the partner universities, either just SNU or just PKU?

A:No. In order to complete CAP, you are required to transfer credits earned at both SNU and PKU. Students cannot choose between SNU and PKU; they must study at all three universities. A three-way academic and cultural experience is the cornerstone of this program. We offer participating students a unique opportunity to broaden their intellectual horizons, and this is not negotiable.

Q:A thesis is not required at GraSPP unless students intend to enter a PhD program. What about at SNU and PKU?

A: All Double Degree students at either SNU or PKU must write a thesis at the school chosen.

7. FAQ

Q: What levels of language proficiency in Chinese and Korean do I need?

A: Since you can take all the necessary courses at SNU and PKU in English, there is no formal requirement for you to have any knowledge of the Chinese or Korean languages. However, in order to make the most of your study and your experience, it is essential that you take steps to gain some basic knowledge of both Korean and Chinese (language "survival" skills at least, such as some simple daily conversational phrases) before you go.

Q: Will I be able to take Chinese language and Korean language lessons while studying at PKU and SNU?

A:Yes. In the CAMPUS Asia Program, in principle all participating students must to study the two languages other than English and their own native language that they will encounter during their periods of study abroad. Requirements vary. For Double Degree students registered with GraSPP and studying at PKU, taking the Chinese language course offered there is part of the requirements and those students will get a grade and credit. However, it is not compulsory for a Foreign Exchange student to take Chinese at PKU. Foreign Exchange students are permitted to take the Chinese language course as auditors without credit, and this we strongly encourage. While at SNU, tuition for participating students attending SNU language classes offered outside the GSIS curriculum will be fully covered. In all cases, language classes are either mutually tuition waived or fully covered by government subsidies.

Q: How many credits are required for exchange students at the other universities?

A: Among PKU, SNU, and UTokyo, we offer students to take at least three classes at each school to give him/her the Certificate of Attendance.
