

Completion Requirements

In order to complete the program of study at the Graduate School of Public Policy (GraSPP), you must be enrolled for two years or longer and earn 46 course credits or more. In addition, you must complete the required courses in your program (sub-specialization) and policy stream when applicable, and earn credits for them.

You may include up to eight credits earned for courses taken at the University of Tokyo's any other graduate schools or the Interfaculty Initiative in Information Studies, or faculties when calculating the required credits for completion of the GraSPP degree.

You cannot register more than 38 credits of courses in one academic year. This includes credits for Research Paper, Thesis, and/or Internship as well. Please refer to the University of Tokyo Rules for the Graduate School of Public Policy in regards to credits obtained at another graduate school or obtained before admission to the Graduate School.

Take note that you basically cannot register for courses which have the same name as the courses for which you have already earned credits for.

Program-specific completion requirements:

- ※ A module which meets more than one completion requirement will be counted as meeting all relevant completion requirements.
- ※ Take note that if a course is not listed in the Class Subject List, it is not held in this academic year.

○ International Program (MPP/IP)

for students who enrolled in MPP/IP on or after April 1, 2017

<NOTES>

Students must complete the required courses and gain credits for them in one of the policy streams of their choice from Economic Policy, Finance and Development (EPFD) or Public Management and International Relations (PMIR).

< Economic Policy, Finance and Development (EPFD) >

Required credits number	Completion Requirements
6 credits	Completion of Law and Political Science courses listed below (6 credits, including 2 credits obtained for one of the compulsory elective courses indicate with * below) Public Management <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>· Politics and Public Policy*</li> <li>· Introduction to Public Management*</li> <li>· Introduction to Social Science</li> <li>· Comparative Political Parties and Elections</li> <li>· Policy Process and Negotiation</li> <li>· Science, Technology and Public Policy</li> <li>· Governance and Development</li> <li>· Comparative Analysis of Japanese Economic Policy-Making Process</li> <li>· Boom, Bust, and Beyond: the Political Economy of Development in East Asia</li> </ul>

	International Relations <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>· Introduction to International Politics*</li> <li>· International Conflict Study*</li> <li>· Field Seminar in International Relations*</li> <li>· International Relations and Political Regimes</li> <li>· Modern Japanese Diplomacy</li> <li>· Security Studies</li> <li>· Insurgency and Counterinsurgency</li> <li>· Contemporary Chinese Politics</li> <li>· Contemporary Chinese Diplomacy</li> <li>· Contemporary Chinese Politics and Diplomacy</li> <li>· International Politics in East Asia</li> <li>· Conflict Prevention and Post Conflict Politics</li> <li>· Global Governance</li> <li>· New Dimensions of Security in the Risk Age</li> <li>· Transformation of Warfare and Technology</li> <li>· U.S. Diplomacy toward Asia</li> <li>· Asia-Pacific Security</li> <li>· Japan's Modernization Experience and Its ODA Policy</li> <li>· Japan in Today's World</li> </ul> Law <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>· Law and Public Policy</li> <li>· Public International Law and Domestic Implementation</li> <li>· International Environmental Law</li> <li>· Introduction to Japanese Law</li> <li>· Law and Society in East Asia</li> </ul>
12 - 15 credits	Completion of Basic Economics Courses listed below (12-15 credits from all the three groups 1 to 3) <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. A or B or C       <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. Microeconomics for Public Policy (4 credits) and Practice Session for Microeconomics for Public Policy (1 credit)</li> <li>B. Microeconomics (4 credits) and Practice Session for Microeconomics (1 credit)</li> <li>C. Microeconomics I (2 credits) and Microeconomics II (2 credits) offered by the Graduate School of Economics</li> </ol> </li> <li>2. A or B or C       <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. Macroeconomics for Public Policy (4 credits) and Practice Session for Macroeconomics for Public Policy (1 credit)</li> <li>B. Macroeconomics (4 credits) and Practice Session for Macroeconomics (1 credit)</li> <li>C. Macroeconomics I (2 credits) and Macroeconomics II (2 credits) offered by the Graduate School of Economics</li> </ol> </li> <li>3. A or B or C       <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. Statistical Methods (4 credits) and Practice Session for Statistical Methods (1 credit)</li> <li>B. Econometrics for Public Policy (4 credits) and Practice Session for Econometrics for Public Policy (1 credit)</li> <li>C. Econometrics I (2 credits) and Econometrics II (2 credits) offered by the Graduate School of Economics</li> </ol> </li> </ol>
8 credits	A minimum of eight credits of Case Studies offered by GraSPP

28 credits	A minimum of twenty-eight credits of courses taught in English (28 credits out of 46, double-countable)
4 credits	A minimum of four credits of courses categorized as Practical Training (4 credits out of 46, double-countable)

< Public Management and International Relations (PMIR) >

Required credits number	Completion Requirements
10 credits	Completion of Law and Political Science courses listed below <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. A and B (4 credits) <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. Politics and Public Policy (2 credits) ; or Introduction to Public Management Note: If you have completed and earned credits for Politics and Public Policy given by Faculty of Law, you do not need to take this course in the GraSPP Program.</li> <li>B. Compulsory elective courses (Choose one): Introduction to International Politics (2 credits); or International Conflict Study (2 credits); or Field Seminar in International Relations (2 credits)</li> </ol> </li> <li>2. Choose three courses from Law and Political Science courses listed below, but not to be taken twice. (6 credits)</li> </ol> Public Management <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>· Politics and Public Policy</li> <li>· Introduction to Public Management</li> <li>· Introduction to Social Science</li> <li>· Comparative Political Parties and Elections</li> <li>· Policy Process and Negotiation</li> <li>· Science, Technology and Public Policy</li> <li>· Governance and Development</li> <li>· Comparative Analysis of Japanese Economic Policy-Making Process</li> <li>· Boom, Bust, and Beyond: the Political Economy of Development in East Asia</li> </ul> International Relations <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>· Introduction to International Politics*</li> <li>· International Conflict Study*</li> <li>· Field Seminar in International Relations*</li> <li>· International Relations and Political Regimes</li> <li>· Modern Japanese Diplomacy</li> <li>· Security Studies</li> <li>· Insurgency and Counterinsurgency</li> <li>· Contemporary Chinese Politics</li> <li>· Contemporary Chinese Diplomacy</li> <li>· Contemporary Chinese Politics and Diplomacy</li> <li>· International Politics in East Asia</li> <li>· Conflict Prevention and Post Conflict Politics</li> <li>· Global Governance</li> <li>· New Dimensions of Security in the Risk Age</li> <li>· Transformation of Warfare and Technology</li> <li>· U.S. Diplomacy toward Asia</li> <li>· Asia-Pacific Security</li> <li>· Japan's Modernization Experience and Its ODA Policy</li> <li>· Japan in Today's World</li> </ul>

	Law <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>· Law and Public Policy</li> <li>· Public International Law and Domestic Implementation</li> <li>· International Environmental Law</li> <li>· Introduction to Japanese Law</li> <li>· Law and Society in East Asia</li> </ul>
8 - 10 credits	Completion of Basic Economics Courses listed below (8-10 credits when the option 1 is chosen or 9 credits with the option 2) <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Choose two out of A, B or C <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. Microeconomics for Public Policy (4 credits) and Practice Session for Microeconomics for Public Policy (1 credit); or Microeconomics (4 credits) and Practice Session for Microeconomics (1 credit); or the set of Microeconomics I (2 credits) and Microeconomics II (2 credits) offered by the Graduate School of Economics</li> <li>B. Macroeconomics for Public Policy (4 credits) and Practice Session for Macroeconomics for Public Policy (1 credit); or Macroeconomics (4 credits) and Practice Session for Macroeconomics (1 credit); or the set of Macroeconomics I (2 credits) and Macroeconomics II (2 credits) offered by the Graduate School of Economics</li> <li>C. Statistical Methods (4 credits) and Practice Session for Statistical Methods (1 credit); or Econometrics for Public Policy (4 credits) and Practice Session for Econometrics for Public Policy (1 credit); or the set of Econometrics I (2 credits) and Econometrics II (2 credits) offered by the Graduate School of Economics</li> </ol> </li> <li>2. The following three courses <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. Principles of Microeconomics (2 credits)</li> <li>B. Principles of Macroeconomics (2 credits)</li> <li>C. Statistical Methods (4 credits) and Practice Session for Statistical Methods (1 credit); or Econometrics for Public Policy (4 credits) and Practice Session for Econometrics for Public Policy (1 credit)</li> </ol> </li> </ol>
8 credits	A minimum of eight credits of Case Studies offered by GraSPP
28 credits	A minimum of twenty-eight credits of courses taught in English (28 credits out of 46, double-countable)
4 credits	A minimum of four credits of courses categorized as Practical Training (4 credits out of 46, double-countable)