

INFORMATION SESSION
CASE STUDY (INTERNATIONAL FIELD WORKSHOP)
OCTOBER 18, 2017

See the photo diary of IFW 2017 in the United States!

Course objectives

- Motivate students to seek ways to collaborate with diverse stakeholders in the international fora by offering opportunities to discuss with professionals in various fields
- Help students to identify today's societal challenges from global perspectives and to learn how to design solutions

Participants are required to

- be actively involved from the planning stage and lead discussion with professionals,
- test your own expertise face to face with professionals, and
- connect yourself with professional networks to develop your future career.

When and where

The next IFW is tentatively scheduled for a period from February 20 to March 1, 2018 in Washington DC, Princeton and New York.

If you want to participate ...

- Submit an application with your proposal as instructed.
- Only those who have passed selection process based on the proposal, and interview as needed, are allowed to register during the A2 registration period (November 28 to December 4).

If you want to participate ... (continued)

- Students who have participated in the past IFWs could apply again and might be admitted, but will not earn credits.
- The number of students allowed to participate will be limited to up to about ten due to the nature of the course involving a series of intensive on-site discussions.

If you want to participate ... (continued)

- Please note that the course grade will be available only after early March 2018. Students in their final semester of studies should not take this course to earn credits required for completion. The credits earned in this course are NOT counted as credits for completion.
