授業のキーワード Keywords	The theme is "The Crisis of Globalization". This theme allows a number of readings. In the years following the 2008-2009 crash and particularly from 2016, numerous commentators have started to point to a crisis of globalization, which had been the trend since the 1990s. Multilateralism seems in retreat in many important areas, and so the role of International Organizations. On the other hand, the nation-state seems to have reaffirmed itself as the privileged locus of policy making. However, crises like the Covid-19 pandemic have stressed the point that the world needs coordination and governance from a supranational perspective, perhaps more than ever. The Challenge We invite students at all GPPN Schools to contribute to a discussion about the state of globalisation in the light of the numerous risks and advantaged it can offer. What kind of globalization is still possible? To the benefit of whom? Based on what ethical and political principles? We also would like students to think about concrete proposals for the advancement of regional and international cooperation, for the strengthening of global governance mechanisms and institutions, in specific areas as well as in the more general domain of international relations. We are looking for student presentations on public policy/international relations proposals that demonstrate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A precise identification and analysis of an important and pressing problem; this precise analysis of the problem will need to be clear prior to discussion of any possible solutions • A strong use of analytics and empirics and how these can be applied to inform a solution to the public policy problem identified • An astute understanding of how policy solutions can be implemented given the interests of the policy actors in the chosen context • A clear awareness of whether and when similar solutions have been tried in the past, why they were successful or how they can be amended in order to be successful in the future.
授業計画 Schedule	-Briefing session -Submission of research proposal -Feedback from the supervisors -Final presentation in the form of a 4-minute video, and selection of GPPN delegation (Announcement of GPPN delegation) -Submission of the final version of the video and final policy proposal --March 2020: Presentation at the GPPN Student Conference 2021 (online) and participation to online debate.
