- Procedures for leave of absence

If you wish to take a leave of absence, you should keep the following in mind:

1. Procedures

Submit a designated application form to the GraSPP Office to request permission by one month before the commencement of the term in which you wish to take a leave of absence.

For the criteria regarding the granting of permission for leave of absence, refer to the “Criteria for Leave of Absence by Students” and the “Extent of Persons Requiring Nursing Care and Social Service Activities Pertaining to Student Leave of Absence Standards” of Rules and Regulations on UTokyo website.

The maximum period for a leave of absence is one year. If you wish to extend the period of leave of absence beyond one year, you must re-apply at least two months before the expiration of your permitted leave of absence.

(Documents required for the application of leave of absence)

For studying (taking courses) abroad	Request for Leave of Absence Study plan Letter of acceptance or certificate of enrollment from the foreign institution
For scientific research abroad	Request for Leave of Absence Research/field trip plan with itinerary
For financial reasons	Request for Leave of Absence Statement of reasons
For medical reasons	Request for Leave of Absence Medical certificate
For childbirth or childcare commitments	Request for Leave of Absence Copy of maternity record book
For nursing care	Request for Leave of Absence Medical certificate
For activities for social contribution	Request for Leave of Absence Activity plan
For home visits (international students only)	Request for Leave of Absence Statement of reasons

2. Leave of Absence, years required for completion and years in enrollment

You are not allowed to take any courses during the period of leave of absence.

In the doctoral program, the duration of leave of absence to be permitted is a minimum of two months but shall not exceed three years (see Article 29 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate Schools). You should note that the period of your leave of absence will not be included in the calculation of the years required for completion (i.e., 3 years) and the limit on years in enrollment (i.e., 5 years).

3. Resumption of Study

Once the reason for your leave of absence is resolved at any time during your leave, you must submit a designated application form to the GraSPP Office to request permission to return to your studies. You must follow the same procedures when you return to school at the end of your leave of absence period.

4. Tuition

You are exempted from payment of tuition during your leave of absence. If you have not completed the leave of absence procedure on time, you should note that you could pay tuition for either the spring or autumn semester even if you will be absent from your studies.

When you receive permission to return to your studies, you must pay tuition during the month in which you return for the entire period from that month to the end of the semester. Any tuition which has been paid will not be refunded.

- Procedures for study abroad

If you intend to enroll in an educational or research institution abroad for two months or longer, you must take the procedure for either studying abroad or taking a leave of absence.

1. Study Abroad

If you wish to study abroad under an exchange program or a double degree program based on a student exchange agreement with an overseas university, you must submit a designated application form to the GraSPP Office to request permission by the specified deadline.

The period of study abroad will be included in the calculation of the years required for completion and the enrollment limit. In principle, tuition must be paid to UTokyo during your study abroad. However, for double degree programs, 1) tuition is paid to the destination university during the period of study abroad and is exempted at UTokyo if the student exchange agreement specifies the tuition to be paid to each destination university, or 2) tuition is paid only to UTokyo during the period of study abroad if the agreement specifies the tuition to be paid to each home university. The agreement depends on the partner school, so please refer to the notices posted on the GraSPP students bulletin board webpage for more details.

2. Leave of Absence

See “Procedures for leave of absence”. The period of leave of absence will not be included in the calculation of the years required for completion and the enrollment limit. Further, if you have submitted and received approval for an application for leave of absence prior to the specified deadline (end of February for the spring semester and end of August for the autumn semester), you will be exempted from paying tuition for the period of your leave of absence. If you have not completed the leave of absence procedure on time, you should note that you could pay tuition for either the spring or autumn semester even if you will be absent from your studies.

If you will be taking courses which are related to your major and earning credits for those courses at a graduate school abroad, you may be deemed to have taken the courses at GraSPP and gain credits for completion of the course. For more information, see the “Completion Requirements” section.

- Procedures for extension of enrollment period

The standard period of enrollment of the doctoral program is three years (see Article 2, Paragraph 5 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate Schools).

If you wish to extend your enrollment beyond this standard limit, you must submit a notice of extension of enrollment on or before the end of the month preceding the month for your original completion. (Long-term students should contact GraSPP Office for confirmation).

It should be noted that enrollment of the doctoral program is limited to five years (see Article 27 of The University of Tokyo Rules on Graduate Schools).
